Animation Workshop with Musa Brooker

November 2, 2019

At the workshop, the guest speaker shared his experiences in the animation industry, answered questions, and showed us how to make a short stop-motion cutout animation using the computer program DragonFrame. Not only did I learn a lot about an area I have some interest in, and got to see what one of the school's animation classrooms looks like, but I also got to meet more Wheaton students, quite a few of whom are also planning to study computer science like I am.
